TINKERBELL SLIPPERS FREE PATTERN

We watch Tinkbell almost everyday. It is the girls favorite! They call her "Bika" and I have no idea why.... but its freaking cute! I figured the girls would love a pair of slippers to wear while they watch Bika save Pixie Hollow!

The pattern below is in toddler sizes 4,5,6,7. You will find the stitch counts in parenthesis. Where there is no parenthesis there is no change. No turning.

What does your "tog" mean. I thought it might mean in the same stitch but my slipper is not coming together. Could you clarify that please?

Hi Abby! "Tog" means together so you will combine 2 stitches into one.

Here's my problem. I get to step five and I do the dc2tog by putting 2 dc in one hole or stitch. But that gets me to the middle of the toe of the slipper. Then the directions say to do about 12 more stitches to get back to the beginning to slip stitch. Since I am only half way around, it doesn't work out. is there supposed to be 10 more dc2tog? It's just not adding up, or meeting up.
